Doorbell, Driveway Cameras Offer Protection

Have you ever heard the doorbell ring and wondered who could it be? Or heard the crunch of tires on your driveway when you weren't expecting a visitor? Randolph Telephone offers a wide variety of cameras and driveway monitoring devices to help give you peace of mind at home and while you're away.

Brand new this summer is a two-way intercom/camera unit built into a doorbell. The iVision wireless intercom allows you to see who is at the door and talk to them if you choose from inside the safety of your home. Randolph Telephone's package includes a convenient handheld monitor with a 2 ¼ inch LCD screen to view live video. It even captures and records that footage in case you need it later. The wireless monitor has a range of 300 feet, allowing you to roam throughout your home with peace of mind that you can view the person at your door. Unlike typical kits, Randolph Telephone's package comes standard with a transformer to hardwire the doorbell, allowing live browsing at any time, not just when someone rings the doorbell. And, if someone does ring the doorbell, you not only see them without them seeing you, you can choose whether to speak to them through the intercom or not. A standard package with professional installation is $389 plus sales tax.

If you have a driveway, you may not know someone is driving up it until they are already at your front door. Randolph Telephone offers a wireless driveway monitor that chimes when a vehicle drives past it. A standard package with professional installation is $262.45 plus sales tax.

Contact Randolph Telephone at 336-622-7900 today for a free custom camera surveillance quote or to learn more about the doorbell intercom/camera and driveway monitor packages.
